

DELBARTON today

In January, Delbarton launched a new virtual exchange program connecting Arabic II language students with students at Pioneers Baccalaureate School on the West Bank of Palestine. Teacher Zack Tabor (here with his class) conducted the exchange organized by Level Up Village, which last fall helped teacher Caroline Chamberlain's 8th Grade Science students build 3-D projects in a virtual exchange with students in Uganda.

Global Delbarton hosts more than a dozen trips and exchanges over five continents, and uses technology to broaden the reach via virtual exchanges. Director of Global Exchanges Dan Pieraccini says, "Even when students and families can't budget time or resources for a homestay, community service, or other experience abroad, we can still bring these opportunities into Delbarton classrooms."
